

Moravians at Old Salem Village North Carolina
By Dale C. Gunn

I first became aware of the Moravians as a group as a result of my attending college in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania in the early 1960's. There was a Moravian College located there.

Later, as a result of my finding ancestors from Waldoboro, Maine and joining the Old Broad Bay Family History Association, I learned more about the Moravians who came to Broad Bay and later resettled in North Carolina.

In October 2018 I traveled to Winston-Salem, North Carolina to attend a leadership conference there. I planned my travel so I had some time to visit the area prior to the conference. I spent a Friday afternoon visiting the Old Salem Village and its museums and visitor centers. I took a number of photos of the village buildings and area. Enjoy them!

Photos taken and copyrighted by Dale C. Gunn.

https://photos.google.com/share/AF1QipMJKS7QqilYE-U34jTC8v4nz_rEWvhyl5J3FPB_tl9qV8ICOiN-6LCDIdb9yBW4bw?key=SS05ak9Wb083Nml3OFFna056a3c3RUI1cHhoaFJR

The web site for Old Salem Village: <https://www.oldsalem.org/>

The web site for the Archie K. Davis Center (Moravian Archives):
<https://moravianarchives.org/davis-center/>
<https://moravianarchives.org/>

Moravian Church Archives in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania:
<https://www.moravianchurcharchives.org/>